SKILLED in short...

The project SKILLED-“Sustainable Skills for Local Developer”- is an innovative European project aiming at creating the professional figure of the EESLD, European Expert in Sustainable Local Development, able to design innovative territorial development plans, interfacing with technical as well as policy level actors.

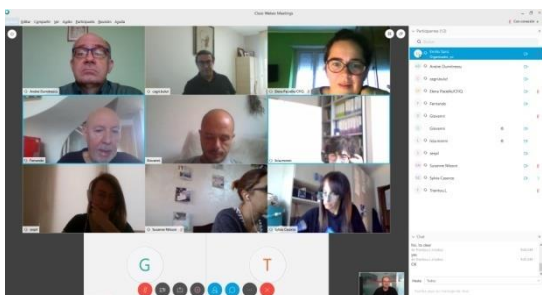

The project also intends to create a transnational skills validation method to promote transparent validation tools in the EU by supporting flexibility. Further, the SKILLED project attempts to formalize non-formal and informal competences that acquired by more experienced persons to transfer them in the training programmes addressed to young VET.

SKILLED online meetings...

The restrictions and unprecedented situations caused by the coronavirus pandemic have undoubtedly affected activities worldwide. We try to minimize the effects of this unpredictable situation on our project, albeit the project is inevitably affected by the outcomes of the pandemic. To minimize those effects, we postponed some of our meetings to future dates or restructured them as online meetings. Nevertheless, our intellectual outputs are in progress as planned thanks to the proactive approach and fast adaptation of partners to the online events.

So during 2020 we had four online meetings:
February 27th, June 11th, September 16th and December 2nd.

The exclusive partnership (8 organisations from 6 European countries - Spain, Italy, Austria, Romania, Greece and Turkey) continued working on the Curriculum for the European Expert in Sustainable Local Development, supporting the «Sustainable Development Goals Strategy».

The main project objectives:

- To enhance employability for young VET through the creation of a new curriculum codifying the profile of European Expert in Sustainable Development.
- To foster transparency and recognition especially of non-formal and informal learning outcomes in the field of sustainable local development through the definition of a transnational validation methodology able to match the specific field demand for expertise.
- To provide flexible and work-based learning pathways through the definition of an open-source training programme (accessible to all) and the implementation of working groups made of young learners and mentors built on a problem-solving approach and stimulating entrepreneurial skills.

What is next on SKILLED...

The next face to face partner meeting will take place in Valencia, SPAIN. The date will depend on the evolution of the coronavirus pandemic. There will be an online meeting on the 11th of January in order to check the situation. The partners will define the European Expert in Sustainable Local Development professional profile description and will develop a training programme for this profile. They will also continue working on the development of the E-learning platform.

The project has started on September 1st 2019 and will progress till August 31st 2022.
